LAC LA BICHE HOCKEY PLAYER IS LAUDED BY SPORTS WRITER

David Gordichuk of Lac la Biche, is one of the most valued players on the Moose Jaw Canucks Hockey team, according to Murray Brown, Sports writer on the Moose Jaw Times-Herald. Writing in a February issue of the paper, in an article headed "A Hockey Bargain," Mr. Brown says:

It becomes increasingly obvious as the campaign progresses that the Canucks picked themselves up a dandy in young Dave Gordichuk.

The talented young winger who started the season at the blue line, has come a long way under coach Vic Myles' capable handling and today ranks as one of the outstanding rookies in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League.

Gordichuk is just cutting his hockey eye-teeth, so to speak. He is only 16 years of age and with at least four seasons in junior ranks ahead of him he may turn out to be one of the greatest players ever to wear a Moose Jaw uniform.

Club president George Vogan describes Gordichuk as "one of the best prospects I've seen in years."

"He has the size, the know-how and the will to be a good hockey player," beams Vogan who has seen a lot of them including the Prystais, Ashworths, Olmsteads, Butlers, etc., come and go in his time.

Gordichuk's three points against Edmonton Oil Kings here Tuesday night, including the winning goal, boosted his points total so far to 24 which isn't bad for a fellow who paid his own way to Moose Jaw last fall in hopes of getting a tryout.

Gordichuk who hails from Lac La Biche, Alta., a whistle-stop somewhere north of Edmonton, is a product of Vogan's All-Canada Hockey School.

Another is centre Fred Sasa-kamoose who also is quite a hockey player. These two players alone would justify, if justification is needed, the continued operation of the school, a brain-child of Vogan.

Besides his train fare, Gordichuk, like all the other hockey scholars, paid his own tuition fee plus board and room expenses and when classes were dismissed he turned out with the Canucks.

Needless to say he has been there ever since. And if first-year form means anything, it's pretty safe to say he will be around for a long time as juniors go.

The Gordichuks, proprietors of the Lac La Biche Hotel, are to be congratulated on sending forth such an outstanding representative of the community. We hope young Dave will make it clear, however, that Lac La Biche is a lot more than just a whistle-stop. It is a divisional point for the railroad and that is Moose Jaw's principal claim to fame.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL SYSTEM GREAT HELP IN RURAL EDUCATION

By DONNA GRANDINETTE, Hylo

Perhaps you have been a student in some small town in your youth. Now tell me—do you think a child can absorb a reasonable education under these unfavorable conditions? Many of you might be saying, "Sure, I graduated from university and passed through the rural school in my young days." Yes, that's true enough—but are you sure you were educated in that grade school or were you just taught the bare fundamentals of "readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic?" Let us try to analyze these conditions.

Close by the roadside, under the overhanging poplar trees, sits the little one room country school surrounded by a white board fence. Here children of the neighboring countryside come to attend grades one to eight. The teacher has between thirty-five and fifty classes each day. All students have the same teacher and recite in the same room. Here is one little poem the poor children might be trying to memorize:

"Still sits the school-house by the road.

A ragged beggar sleeping:
Around it still the sumachs grow
And black vines are creeping"

Not even the best trained teachers can effectively handle all the grades in one room.

Boarding places are usually miles away from school, where teacher has to walk to and from school even in sub-zero weather. Perhaps she may live in a teacherage approximately thirty years old, that was moved to its location when Mrs. Smith stopped raising chicks. It is plentifully furnished because the furniture came from all the junk piles of the districts. However furniture is newly made—from apple boxes. What can we expect of the poor teacher living in these circumstances?

We can still respect the one room rural school as an historic institution that has done much to make Canada a land of literate progressive people. But the one room rural school is not sufficient to meet the educational needs of most communities in Canada to-day. In modern times the children lack the stimulation and association that the rural school room should provide.

Rural education is weak in that the child has relatively few contacts with individuals outside his primary groups and has almost no contact with culture patterns that differ from those of the home community. This tends to make for narrowness and lack of understanding of various phases in life. The urban child, because of his complex environment, comes to understand many patterns of life. The consolidated school, by broadening the contacts of the rural child, tends to improve this situation to a considerable extent.

SKYROCKETING CAR TAXES The Canadian who buys an average priced new automobile today must pay nearly eight times as much in sales and excise taxes to the federal government as he had to pay on the same car in 1939. And he pays more than five times what his American cousin pays to Washington on a similar car. On a representative sedan (figures used in the above graph), the sales tax has increased from $59.70 in 1939 to $142.49 today, an increase of 138 per cent. But the big hike has been in excise taxes, up from $4.81 in 1939 to $356.22 today, a boost of 7,305 per cent. Federation of Automobile Dealer Associations of Canada argue that although cars are now essential (74 per cent are used to get to and from work), they are taxed in the same class as slot machines and juke boxes.

Damp and Tough Grain

The bad harvest weather of 1951 has created a very serious situation because of the large volume of grain which was harvested in a tough or damp condition. Grain that contains over 14.5 per cent moisture is tough, and over 17 per cent moisture is damp.

About the middle of January there were 22½ million bushels of tough grain in store at the Fort William-Port Arthur terminals, and also 14.7 million bushels of damp grain. It will take 18 weeks for the drying facilities in those terminals to recondition that volume of grain. That means if no further supplies of such grain are delivered, it will be June 1 before the grain on hand is dried.

The following table shows the deliveries of straight grade, tough and damp wheat from the 1951 crop up until the middle of January:

	Straight	Tough (bushels)	Damp
Alberta	19,000,000	31,000,000	12,000,000
Saskatchewan ..	43,000,000	59,000,000	54,000,000
Manitoba	5,000,000	8,300,000	3,800,000
Totals	67,000,000	98,300,000	69,800,000

The Rain Makers

Two hundred weather forecasters met recently in New York at the American meteorological society's four-day annual convention. One of the reports the group heard was concerned with the failure of rain-making efforts in eight Western states.

E. J. Workman, of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology in Socorro, New Mexico, said that the use of silver iodide in rain-making had failed to increase precipitation, and actually decreased it, in Western tests. Mr. Workman said, "Lots of research" is needed before science can say whether rain-making is practicable or not.

Other meteorologists at the gathering said that the major company which has done extensive experimenting in rain-making plans to discontinue its research next summer. These weather forecasters indicate the company did not expect to renew its contracts with various branches of the government. Officials of the company have declined to comment on the report.

From the tone of these reports, it seems that artificial rain-making has proved to be somewhat of a disappointment. Not long ago, there were those who looked into the future confidently, with the assurance that in a few years aeroplanes could take off and sow the seeds of rain-making capabilities and get the desired amount of rainfall. Evidently, Mother Nature has proved too tough for modern science, however, and the rain-makers seem to be about where they were several hundred years ago.

Space Ships to the Moon

Sometime back, Major Alex. T. Severisky, noted flyer and airplane manufacturer, predicted that atom-powered space ships piloted by Americans would land on the moon within the next fifty years.

Dr. Wernher von Braun, German scientist, who helped design and build the V-2 rockets during World War II, is far less optimistic. Dr. Braun is now working for the United States Army on guided missiles and he states that all speculation on nuclear power sources for rockets is still founded on rather shaky ground.

How 2,4-D Was Discovered

The herbicide 2,4-D was discovered by accident. Scientists were looking for a substance which would speed up the fixation of nitrogen in the soil, in order to bring about increased production of food. Actually they discovered a substance which would kill plants, notably those with broad leaves. The discovery was not made known until 1945.

In the affairs of this world, men are saved, not by faith, but by the want of it. — Benjamin Franklin.

Welcome Wild Life Increase

There has been a marked increase in the small game population in the Edson district, according to reports presented at the recent Liberal convention in Edmonton, especially among wolves, cougars and coyotes. This has resulted in a corresponding decrease in the number of big game. Part of this may also be due to larger numbers of hunters, many of whom it is charged are inexperienced.

The government has been urged to take steps to increase the number of game wardens in that district to more efficiently enforce the game regulations. Other steps recommended by the convention are: better pay for game guardians, payment of bounties on all predators to the guardians and closer co-ordination of the wildlife work of the provincial and federal governments.

Conquering the Cold

Apparently science continues to labor hard in the direction of curing the ordinary head cold.

The latest miracle drugs, such as sulfonamids and antibiotics, are, of course, not effective against virus diseases, such as the common cold, but Dr. Mark Welsh, of Pearl River, New York, says that large laboratories are getting soil samples from all parts of the world to make tests for new molds.

The scientists hope they will find a product that will be as effective against viruses as against bacteria, which will mean conquering infantile paralysis and cancer, as well as the common cold.

To Desocialize the Mines

Australia will desocialize its coal industry—perhaps with American help. Seventy million dollars worth of machinery and equipment will be sold to private colliery owners, and the government hopes that $175 million more will be forthcoming from private investments.

J. L. Knott, Australia's Director of Defence Production Planning, proposed asking American coal companies to take part. He feels that this would stimulate competition and speed development of rich coal fields which otherwise might be developed uneconomically or not at all.

Everyday Living

THE CIGARETTE FIRE HAZARD

Just a few cases in Vancouver alone, of the hundreds attributed to cigarettes, occurring daily in Canada and the world over.

Fire Chief Erratt reports 183 fires in 1944, from cigarettes and matches. The "Greenhill Park" vessel explosion and fire—eight lives lost. Hamilton apartment block, Christmas decorations fire—one dead, ten in hospital.

Destructive fire in West Vancouver from cigarette thrown from bus window.

Vancouver "Sun" item reports 30,000 fires in Canada in one year from cigarettes.

The fearful Barnum Bailey Circus holocaust, at Hartford, 168 lives lost. Cigarette reported to be the cause.

The fire hazard alone should be good reason for banning this menace to life and property. This is a tremendous loss you will admit, but, the greatest loss to our Nation is the loss of efficiency, caused by cigarette smoking, in our young people.

ARE YOU A MAN OR A SMOKESTACK?

In this article in Reader's Digest, August 1943, Mr. F. P. McEvoy, after being liberated from the bondage of the cigarette habit, says: "Today the physical benefits of a tobacco-free life, are undeniable, but the mental lift and the moral glow from conquering an enslaving habit add up to the most exhilarating satisfaction."

Voice of the People

THE BLIND MUSICIAN

Julian Lee, a blind musician and musical arranger, has been refused a visa to enter Canada. The Canadian Press reports that Lee and his wife wish to come here from New Zealand but that union regulations prevent him joining the Canadian Musicians Union or playing commercially here for 12 months and that, rather than risk having Lee face a year of idleness, our immigration authorities have refused him a visa. Perhaps there is more to this incident than is reported in the press but on the known facts it does not seem likely that the majority of Canadians would approve the principle of turning away a prospective new citizen because he may face hardship on arrival here.

Those Canadians who put pressure on the government to exclude immigrants who might compete with them for jobs should recognize that if their kind of thinking had always controlled our government's policies they themselves might not be in Canada today. Most of our forefathers arrived here without visible means of support and survived to contribute to the country's progress and prosperity.

Most Canadians are satisfied to accept as one of the lesser, and normal, hazards of life competition in their jobs. Even those who work to exclude people in their own trades, professions or businesses would have to agree that as Canada's population has grown, Canada's standard of living has climbed, and that for our own continued prosperity we must strive to multiply the number of people living and working in Canada. But too often it is evident that Ottawa is susceptible to the pleas of people who do not want to face possible competition for work from new Canadians. Julian Lee may never get to Canada, but is it not probable that the loss will be ours rather than his?

BIG MAIL VOLUME

Mail volume in the recent Christmas rush once again set up a new record, and so also I might say did the weather. Both these factors imposed a particularly severe strain upon the facilities of the Postal Service of Canada, despite the preparations made to handle the extra anticipated load, and which among other things involved the employment of 27,000 temporary helpers.

Co-operation extended by the public in early mailing of their Christmas gifts and greetings was, however, even more notable than in previous years and it was this fact that enabled the postal workers to cope efficiently with the unexpected difficulties that arose.

While it is true that in some areas the severe weather conditions were responsible for delays in mail delivery, in general throughout the country post offices were able to keep pace with the mail as it came in and most were back onto a normal basis by the day before Christmas.

The purpose of this letter is to thank the public for the assistance given to us, and also to express to the newspapers of Canada our appreciation of their help in making the public aware of the many ways in which their co-operation could be made effective.

At the same time, may I express to you and the members of your staff my very best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

W. J. TURNBULL.

Deputy Postmaster General, Ottawa, Ont.

COYOTE WAR CONTINUES

Ridiculed as a coward and hunted as a pest, the wily coyote—or "little wolf", as the Indians called him—is perhaps the wisest, sauciest and most cunning of all Alberta wild animals.

For years the coyote has been hunted, poisoned and trapped. Yet he continues to live and thrive near his worst enemy—man.

The animal has gained a reputation of being a killer of sheep, calves and poultry. Yet he is invaluable in keeping down the population of grain-devouring rabbits, mice and gophers, which form 51 per cent of his food supply.

As stock losses mount, farmers attempt control programs. But coyotes have shown an amazing ability to "catch on" to man's most ingenious efforts.

These have included organized ground hunts in which farmers circled a coyote area and closed in for the kill, low-flying airplane swoops by armed professional hunters, and use of coyote hounds, which were turned loose after the coyotes had been chased into near-exhaustion by hunters in trucks.

One of the most unique methods is the use of mothballs, ringed around a herd of sheep. Whether the smell is distasteful to the coyote, or the wily animal fears the new smell as some kind of trap, cannot be fully ascertained, but in many cases it has been highly successful in protecting sheep.

The Alberta government's latest control plan is the use of cyanide guns in areas requesting the materials, supplied free by the agriculture department. The $5 bounty for each coyote killed has been discontinued.

Cyanide guns, 3,300 of them, have been distributed in 33 Alberta areas, appear to be successful but because they are not used on a province-wide basis the overall results still are small.

The cyanide gun is placed in the ground. When the coyote pulls at a baited cap a trigger is released and poison is fired into the animal's mouth. It dies within 100 yards of the gun.

No one knows exactly how many coyotes have been reported. Estimates vary up to 200,000. But more coyotes have been reported this year than any other in the records of the provincial agriculture department.

Compound 1080, or sodium fluoroacetate, is under experiment. It has introduced into Saskatchewan last year when the coyote population was between 100,000 and 500,000. This year the count is estimated to be much lower.

This poison could kill all the coyotes in Alberta if it was used extensively and if the coyotes ate poisoned carcasses indiscriminately. But it likely would kill many birds and useful animals as well. Alberta plans to use it only to a limited extent and even then under strict precautions.

Besides controlling the population of rabbits, mice and gophers, the coyote also figures in the fur industry. A few years ago coyotes were in brisk demand so that the fur could be bleached and dyed for women's coats.

But styles have changed and the demand has dropped off. Today coyotes are in fair demand for trimming and bring between $1 and $3 a pelt.

Best-known of the four species in Alberta are prairie and parkland coyotes. About 80 per cent of them are happy to feed on rabbits, mice, gophers and berries. But the other 20 per cent turn outlaw for various reasons.

These renegades are the ones which make the daring night raids on poultry houses and cut down sheep in the fields. In many areas where mice and rabbits are scarce, the annual losses to farmers often mount into thousands of dollars.

Wauneita Society Meets In Colourful Garb

EDMONTON, March 4.—Preparations are underway at the University of Alberta for the Second Annual Wauneita Alumni Tea, which will be held Sunday, March 15, on the University Campus.

All Wauneita Alumni from the surrounding district are invited to attend the Reunion Tea from 3 to 5 p.m. in the new Wauneita Lounge of the Students' Union Building.

The Wauneita Society includes all the female students who have ever attended the University of Alberta, and has been an active campus organization since 1910. An even greater attendance is expected this year. Attractive St. Patrick's Day symbols will decorate the lounge, special guests invited to pour tea are Mrs. Andrew Stewart, wife of the President; Miss M. Patrick; Mrs. M. H. Long, and Miss H. McIntyre. Receiving the guests will be Miss Margaret Sherlock, Honorary President; Miss Joyce Love, President, and Miss Jean Hunter, Vice-President. Let 'Em Hurt, Says Nurse

Hans W. Abraham, 39, a male nurse, was giving patients at St. John's Hospital in Long Island City, N.Y., the needle. He's being held in $1,000 bail on a Federal narcotics charge.

A.T.A. Officers Returned By Acclamation

The president, vice-president and four of eight district representatives have been re-elected by acclamation to the provincial executive of the Alberta Teachers' Association, Eric C. Ansley, A.T.A. general secretary-treasurer, announced recently, following close of nominations. Though their re-election will not be announced officially till the annual general meeting of the A.T.A. to be held in Calgary April 14 to 16, nominations closed February 26 to allow time for balloting by mail in districts where elections will be held.

Miss Marian Gimby of Edmonton will be declared president and Lars Olson of Holden as vice-president for another term.

Also re-elected by acclamation are three district representatives and a fourth. Kenneth Sparks of Sedgewick, a newcomer, also received acclamation. Mr. Sparks replaces Selmer Olsonberg of Mannville, who did not stand for re-election. Re-elected representatives are Nicholas Poohkay of Hairy Hill for northeastern Alberta; W. Roy Eyres of Arrowwood for Calgary and District; and Edwin McKenzie of Medicine Hat, representing southeastern Alberta.

Teachers will vote in the Peace River area where they will decide between Mary Gray of Grande Prairie, the current representative, and W. D. McGrath of Dixonville.

Teachers in Edmonton and district will choose between Frank Edwards, the current representative, and Warren S. Bailey of Stony Plain.

Five candidates will contest the central western seat on the provincial executive. They are James W. Briggs of Stettler; E. J. Ingram, Bentley; Ottar Massing, Wetaskiwin; D. A. Prescott, Red Deer and George Taylor, Rocky Mountain House. Southwestern corner of the province will hold an election between William Jallep of Blairmore and Robert A. Kimmitt of Diamond City. Mr. Kimmitt is the current representative.

Ballots will be counted in Calgary, April 16th.

High School Enrolment Reaches Record Total

Enrolment in Alberta schools is at a record high with a total of 173,969 students attending grades one to 12 this term.

More than 78,000 students are attending schools in larger cities and towns and schools of independent districts not included in a school division. The remainder—totalling 95,889—are enrolled at divisional schools or at schools in rural towns and villages which have entered school divisions by agreement.

Total enrolment in the previous year was 167,790. Enrolment in cities and larger towns increased this year by about 17,500 students while rural school population dropped by more than 9,000.

11,818 CAR ACCIDENTS IN ALBERTA LAST YEAR

Alberta's staggering total of 11,818 persons killed in highway accidents last year is expected to initiate new safety drives to reduce this alarming toll.

The increased number of accidents already has been taken up by the AMA which at its annual meeting in Calgary referred the matter to its executive for a full review of the situation.

MOST IN EDMONTON

Official figures issued by provincial government officials reveal that of the total number of car accident fatalities in Alberta in 1950, 20 were in Edmonton, 10 in Calgary, four in Medicine Hat, two in Lethbridge and the balance of 147 in other parts of the province.

More than 900 persons were injured in motor accidents, of which 467 were in Edmonton, 401 in Calgary, 31 in Lethbridge and 22 in Medicine Hat, making a total of 921. Figures are not available for other parts of the province.

Reported accidents in Alberta also reached the total of 11,818.

comprising 4,102 in Edmonton, 2,046 in Calgary, 205 in Lethbridge, 171 in Medicine Hat and 5,194 in other parts of the province.

It is pointed out that the fatal accidents alone are practically three and a half times greater than they were some years ago.

While safety advocates recognize that the traffic volume has greatly increased, they feel that the toll is nothing short of shocking and calls for prompt measures to alleviate conditions this year.

Provincial government officials have stated that patrols on main highways, where reckless driving is a constant menace, have been multiplied in the interests of safety.

At the same time, many of the fatal crashes occurred in instances where cars collided with standing trucks, or where other factors were responsible.

The list also included fatal accidents at level railway crossings despite the repeated warnings of lurking dangers at such intersections.

Carbon monoxide deaths have been another major cause of highway deaths in Alberta, causing safety authorities to again stress the need of taking all possible precautions to avert such tragedies.

Seed Competition Postponed

Judging of the seed competition has been postponed for a month as there were not sufficient entries for the show held in Boyle on February 20. The number of entries for forage seeds was especially disappointing. It is hoped that a good number of farmers will take advantage of the postponement to enter.

Samples should comprise a quarter of a bushel of grain or ten pounds of forage seed. Entry forms may be obtained from Mr. G. Bolton at Imperial Bank of Canada, Boyle, or Mr. H. Armfelt at Provincial Building, Athabasca, and samples should be entered with either of these parties before Saturday, March 23.

GRASSLAND NEWS NOTES

The annual meeting of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, Grassland Local, will be held at the Community Hall on March 20, at 8:00 p.m. Many topics pertaining to agriculture will be discussed, and election of new officers will take place. All farmers are welcome.

News was received on Tuesday of the accidental death of Merle Chambers in British Columbia. Arlie and Norman, of Grassland, are brothers of the deceased, and Rhein Chambers, who is farming near here, is the father. Details of the accident are at present not available. Norman left on Wednesday to attend the funeral.

The Massey Harris show at the Community Hall was well attended. A large crowd enjoyed the four-reel film and other attractions. First prize at the drawing, a credit note for $75, was won by a farmer from Ellscoff. Second prize, $25, went to Mrs. Hrynuk of Grassland.

Dale Mellott is at present in hospital at Lac la Biche.

Miss Inger Sorenson, the new District Nurse, passed through Grassland on Wednesday's bus bound for Piamondon, and will be on duty at Grassland on Saturday.

CROP ROTATION STRESSED IN SAVE-THE-SOIL CAMPAIGN

Annual presentation of Save-the-Soil certificates has been made by the Department of Agriculture to 24 farmers who scored 80 per cent and over in the 1951 campaign.

Awards are made in the areas of Olds, Eckville, Ponoka, Berwyn, Holden and Edmonton. Purpose of the campaign is to encourage better crop practices and soil conservation.

Winners of the 1951 certificates include: Linus Meyer, Clover Bar; Harold Wannacott, South Edmonton; Ruben Schwindt, Spruce Grove; Walter Fielhaber, Stony Plain; Mike Soldan, Beach Corner; Paul Montpetit, Legal; J. Bazinet, Edmonton; Carl S. Johnson, Fort Saskatchewan; Steve Puchalik and Nick Puchalik of Coronado; Mike Serink, Fort Saskatchewan; Leon Blanchette, Vimy, and Edwin Atkinson St. Albert.

The first Save-the-Soil campaign was organized at Eckville in 1945 by local organizations and the district agriculturist. The winner of each year's competition received a shield donated by the local bank, and was allowed to keep it for one year. At the end of five years, the trophy was given to the winner who had the highest total score during that time.

This campaign rapidly spread to other areas throughout the Province, until it now takes in six important agricultural centres in Alberta. In each case, the campaign is organized and sponsored by a local organization such as an agricultural society, board of trade or chamber of commerce.

Prizes of merchandise, money, seed grain and similar articles are given away annually by the local organizations. These are not necessarily awarded to the winner with the highest points, but often to the entrant who has shown the most progress within the year.

The Department of Agriculture recognized the vital work per-

AD IN PAPER "DOES THE TRICK"

Mrs. Albert E. Labelle, Thorhild, writes to say "Thanks to your paper for running my advertisement. I got a buyer for my farm within a week. Your paper did the trick."

If you have something you want to buy or sell, write the Advertising Manager, P.O. Box 4368, South Edmonton in care of this paper.

formed by the Save-the-soil campaign, and in 1950, announced that it would offer annual certificates to winners in each district.

A regulation score was drawn up, and is used by areas wishing to enter the campaign. Applications are sent out to the farmers by local organizations and are judged and scored by a district agriculturist or other Department of Agriculture official.

A total of 1,000 points is offered, and a score of 800 or better entitles the entrant to receive a certificate from the Department of Agriculture.

Breakdown of the scoring: Suitable crop rotation, 250 points; freedom from soil erosion, 175 points; farm shelterbelts, 100 points; freedom from weeds, 175 points; suitable cultural practices, 100 points; condition of uncropped land, 50 points; yield of crops, 50 points; freedom from crop disease, 50 points; general neatness of fields and fence lines, 50 points.

The most important factor in saving the soil is proper crop rotation. Farmers entering the competition are urged by local organizations and district agriculturists to introduce proven methods of rotation, and prevention of soil erosion is stressed.

Tony Sawchuk is in an Edmonton hospital, where Mrs. Sawchuk has gone to visit him.

Ponder Awhile

Isn't it strange that Princes and Kings, and clowns that caper in saw-dust rings and common folk like you and me are builders for Eternity.

To each is given a bag of tools, a shapeless mass and a book of rules,

And each must make their life is flown,

A stumbling block or a stepping stone—which is yours. Ponder a while.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I am a young girl and considered attractive to young men and older men too.

I have been in love with an attractive young man for almost three years. When we first fell in love, we were in school but now we have graduated. We were engaged about four months but have broken the engagement. We have been together since but he doesn't want to settle down even to plan our life together, yet he says he loves me only and plans to marry me and no one else.

He was wonderful when we were first in love, he had beautiful ideals, high morals, was ambitious but now he has changed so completely. I've tried a dozen times to show him how wrong he is in changing — going to church now is out of the question; he never goes and his every day talk is full of swearing and vulgar language.

What I want to know is how long must I cling to those days when he was the kind of man I want for my husband and the father of my children? I love him but I wonder if it is wise. Are my love and prayers strong enough to fight his worldly way of life and, raise his standard of living?

BROKENHEARTED.

Answer:

I think you are waging a losing fight and throwing away some of your best years on a boy who is not worthy of your love. Men are much easier to reform before they are married than they are afterwards and if you haven't the same standards now and are not congenial, your chances for happiness would not be any better after marriage.

However, you say that the boy does not want to settle down or even plan your life together. This indicates that he is not sure that he is in love with you. Certainly, someone who is in love with a girl would be happy to plan their life together, even though he was unable to support a wife at present.

Stop living in the past with a personality that has changed and make new friends.

LOUISA.

Music Hath Charm

TORONTO, ONT. — (BUP) —

Officials of the new branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia expect the playing of "functional music" to improve efficiency and relieve employees' tension and fatigue.

Bank officials said the music would be broadcast through some 300 loudspeakers in the freight floors of the new skyscraper reserved by the bank for its own use.

The music is played 22 minutes of each hour and the mood of the music is varied to suit the expected temperament of employees at different hours.

$1 for EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Editor will pay $1.00 for every item published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life". Address "Embarrassing Moments", P.O. Box 4868, South Edmonton.

As a young girl I worked at housework, and one day my mistress told me to empty the waste paper basket and mail the letters she had written. I threw the contents of the basket into the incinerator and, returning to the house, looked for the letters, but couldn't find them. I had burned them with the trash. The lady of the house said not to worry, she could write the letters over again, but I was certainly embarrassed!
North Edmonton. M.M.

Driving to a show, I noticed an attractive young lady walking in the same direction. I picked her up, and treated her to the show, sitting beside her. Then, like a real gentleman, drove her home and asked her for another "date". She refused with "No, thank you, I'm married." I guess we were both embarrassed.

ALBERTA RED CROSS WOMEN SHIP CLOTHING OVERSEAS

Mrs. Katherine E. Mason of Calgary, honorary chairman of the Women's Work Committee and national vice-president of the Canadian Red Cross Society, gave the annual report on women's work in Alberta when she addressed the 37th annual meeting of the Society at Edmonton during its two day session February 21 and 22.

The speaker reported that the wives and mothers of the province have tallied an outstanding amount of work during the past year with 18,120 knitted and sewn articles and 371,684 surgical dressings.

Great Britain, the Gaza area, Korea and Germany, received a total of 13,841 articles of clothing and bedding as follows: Great Britain, 7,889; Gaza, 4,616; Korea, 245; and Germany, 1,091.

In Canada, the port nursery for new Canadians at Halifax received 234 articles of clothing; military hospitals, 279; and the Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital 60 articles of linen and 14,542 surgical dressings.

Mrs. Mason stressed that all supplies for the Blood Transfusion Service in Alberta are made by the women of the province. This year the total received by the service included 1,180 sewn supplies and 373,509 surgical dressings. Red Cross welfare distributed 210 items of clothing and bedding and 210 surgical dressings while victims of disaster received 96 new articles.

Emphasizing that Red Cross is ready for any emergency, Mrs.

Mason told the delegates that 16,550 items of wearing apparel and 246,380 surgical dressings are stockpiled at Division Headquarters for emergencies.

"Though we have more workers in our committees today than we have had since the end of the Second World War, we still need volunteers," said Mrs. Mason. "Suffering and need are on the increase throughout the world and to many, only the Red Cross can send help. Knowing neither color nor creed, Red Cross may scatter its charities to all."

"While you were playing," smiled the host, "I made a bet with a friend. What was the name of the song you just played?"

The song writer smiled proudly. "You've never heard it before," he boasted. "It's one of my new compositions."

The host nodded. "Then I win my bet," he said, happily. "My friend insisted the piano was out of tune!"

Her Only Hope

As often happens when a woman is approaching 40, Miss Robinson was "about 28," and not without hope. Even her favorite fortune-teller could not see a suitor in the offing, but was anxious to keep a customer.

"Ha!" she said, her eyes on the crystal. "I see a tall man. He's going to propose to you."

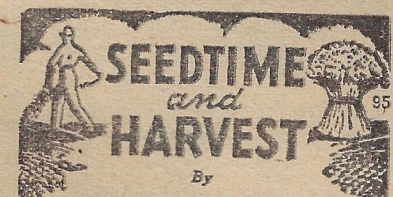

"Dark?" fluttered the excited client.

"Yes," said the fortune-teller. "Dark. It will have to be."

Fisherman's Optimism

Is Your Seed Free of Smut?

During the winter of 1950-51, the Line Elevators Farm Service tested 20,473 farmers' seed samples of wheat, oats and barley for the presence of surface-borne smut. A summary of the results is presented here.

Smut Situation Serious. Out of a total of 11,993 wheat samples tested, 46% was found to be contaminated with stinking smut (bunt), with 1% of the samples actually containing smut balls. Smut spores (eggs) were found to be present on no less than 74% of the 5,331 oat samples tested. Of these, 6% was carrying smut balls. The results with 3,149 farm samples of barley seed showed that 89% of them was contaminated with surface-borne smut. And, believe it or not, smut balls or pieces of smut balls were actually found in 24% of the barley samples.

So far this winter we have tested over 7,000 farmers' seed-grain samples for smut. And here is the picture. Over 40% of the farm seed stocks of wheat and more than 80% of those of barley and oats from the 1951 crop was found to be contaminated with smut.

More Treatment Needed. What does this serious smut situation mean? It simply means that many farmers are either not treating properly, or not treating their seed-grain at all for smut control. This neglect is costing Western Canada hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. This is a needless loss. It can be prevented.

Seldom is it possible to make a recommendation to farmers that has no "if's" and "but's" attached to it. In advising farmers to treat their seed-grain for smut, however, we are confident that here is one case at least where all the "if's" and "but's" can be ignored. Treat your seed this spring. Proper seed treatment for smut control is simple, inexpensive and effective. It is first-class, low-cost crop insurance. The recommended seed treatments for small grain crops will be discussed in our next article.

Funds Appeal To Aid In Fighting Cancer

Contributions to the Cancer Crusade next month will be used to "lift the shadows which hide cancer's causes and cures," G. R. A. Rice, President of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Cancer Society, said in Edmonton this week.

He disclosed that more than $3,000,000 in contributed funds has been expended on research projects since the Canadian Cancer Society initiated its vast programme five years ago.

"Thousands of lives will be saved by the Canadian Cancer research programme this year," Mr. Rice declared. "Most of them would have died of the disease just a few years ago. They are being saved by the products of recent research, new types of surgery and new ways of delivering heavy doses of x-rays and radium."

"New chemicals are being rushed from laboratory tests on tissue cultures and animals to the clinic. Many of them are showing that they can kill the pain of cancer and put the patient back on his feet."

"We have learned down through the centuries that there can be no sure thing in research, against cancer or for any other cause. I think, however, that there can be little doubt from the results so far achieved that research eventually will cut cancer down to a controllable medical problem."
